General Comment

I strongly urge, at the very least, an expansion of the description of "religious exemption". The current law as written is a direct attack on the beliefs of the Catholic Church and an indirect attack on other religious affiliations that believe in the pro-life mandate in all of its forms.

The current administration's attempt to marginalize and/or destroy the tenets of one's faith is despicable particularly because it is encoiled around a attempt to bring health care benefits to those without them.

I, and I'm sure many of my constituent's, did not give our government the right to behave in such an unconstitutional manner. This law and all it stands for must be overturned, or altered to provide for religious views.
